

Groupe Gorgé awarded an export contract in nuclear worth more than €6 million

Groupe Gorgé, through its subsidiary Baumert, expert in the design of technical doors for the protection of high-risks sites, was awarded a contract worth more than €6 million for the supply of special doors for a nuclear new build project located in Western Asia.

The group is particularly satisfied with this order which rewards several years of efforts to obtain a first reference on the Russian VVER nuclear technology. To the group's knowledge, Baumert is the only company to have references on all the main nuclear power plant technologies (French, Chinese, American and Russian). This contract reinforces the group's position in a long-term growth market as nuclear energy is increasingly seen by countries as an effective solution to increase energy production while limiting CO2 emissions.

This 4-year contract covers the design, supply and supervision of the installation of nearly 500 doors with high technical requirements (fire-resistant, waterproof, etc.) of the ANDROMEDE, CASSIOPEE and BIO ranges.

This first large-scale success in a project based on Russian VVER technology positions Baumert in an important new market with an increasing number of new build projects based on this technology in the medium term.
